The Center for Preprofessional Education encourages all Pre-Law students to attend

"The CLEO Connection!"

The Council on Legal Education Opportunity provides under-represented prelaw students with a lively, in person discussion with peers, law school faculty, and attorneys in order to enhance the student’s social perspective on the admissions process and law school success. The CLEO CONNECTION program will provide a person-to-person environment where under-represented students can find answers to important questions about law school, create a local network of colleagues and legal professional guides, and develop their understanding of the legal field culture.

There are several opportunities to attend:
