The College of Arts and Sciences

Established as the College of Liberal Arts (in 1868), the College of Arts and Sciences (as it was renamed in 1992) is the oldest and largest academic unit of Howard University, with over 4,000 enrolled students. Nicknamed “The Flagship,” the College of Arts and Sciences provides students with a first-class education grounded in the quest for intellectual freedom, social justice, artistic expression, experiential learning, and the pursuit of knowledge and academic excellence.

Our students engage in solutions to human, scientific, and social problems through rich curricula that provide a solid foundation for advanced studies and academic degree programs. These curricula are designed to enhance the students’ communicative, analytical reasoning, critical thinking, and quantitative skills. As the Flagship of Howard University, the College of Arts and Sciences involves students in cutting edge research and hands-on learning. Students also build their knowledge and learning through co-curricular engagements that nurture their sense of responsibility to communities based locally, nationally, and internationally.

The College of Arts and Sciences offers bold and innovative interdisciplinary courses that bridge the humanities to the natural and social sciences.

This methodology responds to the demands of a fast-changing and diverse world. It also provides a haven to culturally diverse students of all academic pursuits. The College addresses serious issues in society, especially the ones that people of African descent confront. It also fosters safe spaces in which students embrace diversity, traditions, and many visible and invisible differences.

Students are part of a community that values academic excellence, career readiness, and empathetic leadership. Our aim is to help students acquire what W.E.B. DuBois termed “broad sympathy” knowledge of the world that was and is, and their relation to it. We aim to engender in students respect for others and tolerance for ideas that differ from their own. We help them to learn and appreciate who they are and from whence they have come. We empower them to become life-long learners and foster in them a love for freedom, justice, and a commitment to excellence, truth, and service.

We thank the family members, friends, mentors, staff, and faculty, who have dedicated their wit, knowledge, and passion to accompany our graduates in their academic journey. You have helped them to become innovators who can meet societal challenges and produce positive transformational outcomes.

To Our Class of 2024

Our hearts are bursting with joy for your monumental achievements!

What a year it's been!

During your studies in the College of Arts and Sciences, some of you won national awards for the outstanding work you have done, others have received internships at top companies in the country, and over one hundred of you have received a free passport to study abroad and explore critical issues that affect communities across the globe.

We are extremely proud of you!

You are well-prepared to challenge norms, to advocate for democracy and social equity, to promote environmental sustainability, and to positively impact the communities and institutions around you.

We are grateful to you for the voices you will make heard and for the ways in which you will engage with issues of diversity and growing apertures in the economic fortunes of our social fabric. Use the education that you have received to launch and sustain efforts that will forge significant differences in your communities, the nation, and the world.

You are equipped to be the beacons that the world needs!

During this new chapter of your life, you will learn to balance your career ambitions with a commitment to love and to have fun, while driving social change. "Do the best you can until you know better. Then, when you know better, do better" (Maya Angelou).

Thank you for choosing the College of Arts and Sciences to fortify your life's journey. You are about to join the distinguished list of alumni who blaze trails in the national and global communities. Be assured that we will continue this journey with you. We look forward to welcoming you back to the Mecca through tailored and engaging alumni initiatives!
