

Reed V. Tuckson

Dr. Reed V. Tuckson is the Managing Director of Tuckson Health Connections, LLC, a vehicle to advance initiatives that support optimal health and well-being. Currently, Tuckson's focus is on his role as a co-convener of the Coalition For Trust In Health & Science, which is dedicated to bringing together the entire health-related ecosystem to address mistrust and misinformation. In addition, he continues to advance his work as a co-founder of the Black Coalition Against COVID, a multi-stakeholder and interdisciplinary effort working to mitigate the COVID-19 pandemic in Washington, DC, and nationally by coordinating the four historically Black medical schools, the NMA, the National Black Nurses Association, the National Urban League, and BlackDoctor.org.

Previously, he enjoyed a long tenure as Executive Vice President and Chief of Medical Affairs for UnitedHealth Group, a Fortune 20 Health and wellbeing company. A recognized leader in his field, Dr. Tuckson is honored to have been appointed to leadership roles at the National Institutes of Health; National Academy of Medicine; numerous Federal Advisory Committees; and corporate, non-profit and academic boards.

Dr. Tuckson has also held significant roles such as President of the Charles R. Drew University of Medicine and Science, Senior Vice President for Professional Standards at the American Medical Association, Senior Vice President at the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation, and Commissioner of Public Health for Washington, D.C.
